'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

He stopped at the street corner, smiled pleasantly, and started a conversation.

He was well versed in almost every subject under the sun. He told of playing golf, of how he loved to see football and baseball games and how he liked to drive.

He hadn't read a book for some time, he confessed—and he hadn't seen a movie show for over a month.

And when the conversation finished, we turned to go.

"I'm sorry to trouble you," he said, "but would you mind taking me across the street?"

"I—I—well, I've been blind for only a month and I haven't gotten the feel of things yet."

If he hadn't confessed his affliction, one would never have known that the light of the day and the night had been taken from him.

But he still smiled . . . and he seemed perfectly happy.

Things like that make one ashamed of one's toothache or sunburned back.

A gifted author once wrote a story of a man who was blind from birth.

Year by year this man prayed and wished that he could see.

Friends told him about the world—the flowers—the sun—the stars—the moon—

The blind man painted pretty pictures of the world with his imagination.

And what a beautiful world his was.

Then a great eye specialist from Europe visited him.

An operation was performed, and the blind man saw for the first time.

Two weeks later he visited the specialist and asked him if he couldn't take away his sight again.

He much preferred to be blind.

PROGRAM OF SEMESTER IS MAPPED

Final preparations for the opening of the Richmond Public schools tomorrow were made at three faculty meetings yesterday morning.

Walter T. Helms, superintendent of Richmond schools held a meeting of the elementary school principals in the Lincoln school yesterday morning, when the program for the semester was laid out, and work was discussed.

School curriculums were also laid out at meetings held yesterday afternoon by B. X. Tucker, principal of the Richmond Union high school and F. C. Schallenger, junior high school principal.

The meetings were attended by the school faculties of the high school and the Roosevelt and Longfellow schools.

A constant stream of new pupils was lined up at the high school, registering for the coming term, and Tucker announced that more than 200 pupils registered yesterday.

This amount showed an increase of approximately 100 over last year's registration although the other schools have registered approximately coinciding with the 1929 enrollment.

Students who were enrolled in the high school last year will register at the opening of school tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock, Tucker announced.

With the exception of the appointment of Phillip Hempler, who will take Maj. Ivan Hill's place as coach and athletic director of the high school and Frank Ribbel, as his assistant, no major changes will be made in the faculties, Helms said.

Watch The Dirt Fly

A Mule can't pull when he kicks
And he can't kick when he pulls
Neither can you or I.

The above three lines are illustrative of what can be accomplished by all pulling together.

It will make anyone happy to see what has been brought about by team work, by making a visit to the inner harbor at the foot of Tenth street.

Where that territory was a barren waste and swamp a comparatively short time ago, it now presents a scene of activity.

Hundreds of cars are parked, men have been put to work, and this force will be greatly augmented by the Ford contractors by the end of next week.

One pile driver is on the ground, and piles have been driven for a rock and gravel bunker that will contain the material that will go into the concrete piles, foundation, and floors.

A drill track, 1200 feet in length is to be extended from the end of the Parr Terminal warehouse to the new material bunkers.

A big force of men are busy constructing three new pile drivers, and more will be brought in from outside.

Four hundred carloads of piles are to go into the foundation of the buildings. A carload of piles has already arrived.

It will take 36,500 cubic yards of concrete for the foundation and the flooring. The flooring alone will take 13,500 cubic yards.

Just figure out how many tons of material that represents.

The lumber contract has just been awarded to the Tilden Lumber company. It is one of the largest ever awarded on the coast.

Monday work will start on the $140,000 sanitary sewer.

These are just a few of the highlights in connection with the new plant of the Ford Motor company.

There is hardly a day but what new developments are taking place.

It will pay every resident of Richmond to watch this march of progress.

EVENTS WILL START HERE WEDNESDAY

The recreational program for the fall semester in Richmond, was yesterday mapped out by Ivan W. Hill, Richmond recreational director, before a meeting of the playground directors at Lincoln school.

The fall activities will proceed along the same general lines on which the local playground activities were formed by W. L. Seawright, former recreational director of this city.

Speedball for boys and kickball for girls will occupy the principal position in playground activities this autumn, according to the plans laid at yesterday's meeting.

The fall term will be rather quiet as far as playground activities are concerned. These activities will be more numerous as the spring term gets under way, when baseball and basketball will loom on the local athletic horizon.

The playground program will proceed in conjunction with the plans of the faculties of the various public schools in Richmond.

Another meeting of the playground directors will be held Tuesday at Lincoln school. The term program will probably begin about Wednesday.

The members of the playground commission of Richmond, headed by Hill, are: Ernie Barbieri, George Gordon, John Palmer, Jack Flynn, and Norman Gregg.

Senora Calles

MISS LEONOR LLORENTE, prominent in social circles of Mexico City, became the bride of Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, former president of Mexico on Aug. 1.

PROJECT TO BE RUSHED TO FINISH

Construction of the new $140,000 sanitary sewer system will be started tomorrow by Jasper Stacey, the contractors.

The first portion of the work to be done will be the building of the outfall portion at the Ford plant site, according to City Engineer E. A. Hoffman.

This portion of the work will be done first in order that it will not interfere with the building of the Ford plant on the Richmond inner harbor site.

It is expected that the work will be finished within four or five months, Hoffman stated.

If it is finished within this time, the new sewer system will aid in carrying away flood waters during the rainy season.

The system will serve the industrial district growing up at the inner harbor and at the same time it will be the first unit of a complete new sewer system for the city. This proposed new sewer system would cost approximately a million and a quarter of dollars.

The Ford factory and the Filice and Perelli cannery are two of the industries that will be served.

The installation of the new sanitary sewer was promised by the city as one of the conditions incidental to the location of the Ford plant in Richmond.

BUS TO FORD SITE TO START

The office of the East Bay Motor Coach lines, formerly part of the Key System Transit company, announced yesterday that the bus line down Tenth street to serve Filice and Perelli cannery and the Ford Motor Plant on the Richmond inner harbor, will start operations tomorrow.

The line will operate from Tenth street and Macdonald avenue to Tenth street and Hall avenue, according to the announcement.

Four round trips will be made during the morning and four during the late afternoon hours, it was announced. The schedule follows:

Leaving time from Tenth street and Macdonald avenue:
5:47, 6:42, 7:37, 8:22 a. m.
3:52, 4:42, 5:32, 6:22 p. m.

Leaving time from Tenth street and Hall street:
5:54, 6:54, 7:44, 8:34 a. m.
4:04, 4:54, 5:44, 6:34 p. m.

The regular 7 cents fare will apply within the Richmond city limits.

Rookers To Leave Today

Mr. and Mrs. George N. Rooker are planning to leave for St. Paul today, where they will visit relatives for a time before Rooker assumes his new duties as president of a mid-west utility corporation.

Rooker has been district manager of the Pacific Gas and Electric company, with headquarters in Richmond and Frank Avinellis, office manager, will be in charge of the district temporarily, L. H. Newbert, division manager, announced yesterday.

Lady Mary Heath Sails For Europe

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—UP—Lady Mary Heath, noted flier, sailed today aboard the Holland-America liner Amsterdam for a three months' tour of Europe.

While abroad Lady Heath will be active in connection with her duties as president of the Women's Aeronautical association and vice-president of the International Women's Athletic association.

The aviatrix told the United Press she had fully recovered from injuries received in an air crash at Cleveland a year ago.

John A. Miller On Tour Of State

Postmaster and Mrs. John A. Miller have left for a three weeks trip through the southland, planning to tour as far south as San Diego, and visit a while as far north as Eureka before returning.

RIAL LEE LEAVE

W. D. Rial, prominent Los Angeles oil man and George Lee, local financial broker left yesterday for Sonora, where they will spend the week-end on Rial's ranch.

TILDEN GETS FORD AWARD

E. M. Tilden, president of the Tilden Lumber company announced today that his concern had been awarded the contract for furnishing all of the lumber for the new plant of the Ford Motor company on the Richmond inner harbor. The award is one of the largest material contracts given out in the east bay section this summer.

According to the announcements, delivery of the lumber will start at once as the contractors are anxious to rush construction on the plant.

The lumber and piling contract for the new outfall sewer system to serve the Ford and other plants in the inner harbor, and to take care of the sewage for the central east side of the city, has also been awarded to the Tilden company according to an announcement by O. W. Jasper, head of the company which holds the general contract for the sewer system.

CERIDONO IS HONORED HERE

Nearly 200 persons were present at ceremonies in the Odd Fellows hall last night, honoring Charles Ceridono of Point Richmond Grove of Druids, who has recently been elected grand arch of the Druids of California.

Included in the gathering were many grand officers of the lodge, and several members of the city council headed by Mayor A. B. Hinkley.

Mayor Hinkley introduced the council members and made the speech of welcome to Ceridono.

Gus J. Allyn, chairman of the reception committee acted as master of ceremonies, and introduced the speakers of the evening.

State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson, who was scheduled as the principal speaker of the evening, was unable to be present, but his place was taken by J. C. Gugliamoni, grand secretary, who made an interesting address.

Mrs. Esther Petric, was next on the program and rendered a piano solo, which was followed by a speech by Past Noble Grand Arch C. D. Dorn.

Anita Chasseur, and Margaret Allyn rendered vocal solos, and Mrs. Josie Parodi, past grand archdruidess and organizer of the Point Richmond circle, delivered the closing address.

Refreshments were served and dancing concluded the evening.

DETROIT CRIMES To Be Probed

DETROIT, Aug. 9.—UP—A 23-man grand jury, to investigate crime conditions in Detroit, and the recent gang murder of Gerald E. Buckley in particular, was ordered today by the Wayne county circuit court.

The order followed the petition of James E. Chenot, prosecuting attorney, for such an investigation. Five of the circuit judges, with Lester S. Moll, presiding, ordered the inquiry.

It probably will be two weeks before the grand jury begins to function, Judge Moll said. A panel of 150 probably will be drawn, and the 23 members of the jury will be selected from the group. There is a possibility a special prosecutor may be named to work with the jury.

BURGLAR TRAP COSTS MAN LOSS OF RIGHT LEG

Hospital attaches yesterday found it necessary to amputate the right leg of Henry Hadler, 68, a laborer living in a small shack in the rear of the Hill lumber yards in Stege, after he became a victim of a home-made burglar trap.

Hadler, according to information gathered by the police department, had placed a 12-gauge shotgun on the bed aimed at the door, with a string tied from the door to the trigger of the weapon.

Yesterday morning, returning from a trip to Richmond Hadler evidently forgot his "burglar trap" and opening the door, was shot through the right leg, the member being crushed so badly it was necessary to amputate.

It is believed Hadler laid in his doorway for some time before neighbors, attracted by his groans, found him. A Wilson and Kratzer ambulance immediately rushed him to the Hospital Richmond where the operation was performed.

John Voeltz, 4908 Carlos avenue, and Emory Smith, of the same address, found the man lying in a pool of his own blood.

Police records show that Hadler reported on April 21 that some one had entered his house and stolen two dollars, and it is believed he had prepared for the return of the burglar.

CITY PRAISED BY VISITOR

Benjamin F. Bartel, prominent attorney of Chicago, Illinois, secretary of the Cook county Republican Central committee and a lifelong friend of A. L. Paulsen was a Richmond visitor yesterday.

Bartel is a native of Weaver, Illinois, Trinity county, and went to school with Paulsen. The boyhood acquaintance has been kept up during all of the years that have passed.

Paulsen took his guest on a tour of the city, showed him the industries that Richmond had, and then took him to the inner harbor, where the Ford factory is to be located.

Bartel was amazed at the development that has taken place in the harbor, and said that in his visits to different parts of the county, he had never before viewed a harbor project that had the potential possibilities that the one at Richmond has.

While Bartel is a resident of Chicago, he will sing the praises and tell of the opportunities for industries there that desire to establish plants on the Pacific coast. He still claims that he is a Californian, and is just waiting for the time to arrive when he can return to this state.

Triple Killing Is Confessed

NEW MARTINSVILLE, W. V., Aug. 9.—UP—A triple murder, discovered through charred bones found on the floor of a smouldering log cabin near here was being solved today through an alleged confession by Melvin Slider, 23-year-old mountaineer.

Slider, according to Prosecutor George Coffield, Wetzel county, admitted killing J. Lott Lounsfelder, his half brother, after Lounsfelder had killed his own wife, Nora, 45, and his stepdaughter, Annabelle Hupp, 14 years old.

Bartel was amazed at the development that has taken place in the harbor, and said that in his visits to different parts of the county, he had never before viewed a harbor project that had the potential possibilities that the one at Richmond has.

While Bartel is a resident of Chicago, he will sing the praises and tell of the opportunities for industries there that desire to establish plants on the Pacific coast. He still claims that he is a Californian, and is just waiting for the time to arrive when he can return to this state.

One Killed, Three Hurt In Train Crash

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—UP—One man was killed and several passengers on a crowded three car "L" train were injured today when the coaches crashed into a work train on the west side.

Failure to close the switch on the main track of the Rapid Transit system was held responsible for the collision. The dead man was Peter Noderangelo, an "L" company employee, who was on the work train.

Pittsburg Legion Opens Air Show

PITTSBURG, Aug. 9.—Featuring a sensational exhibition of outside loops, Paul Mantz, holder of the world's record for the stunt, opened the American Legion air show here today.

During the afternoon passenger flights, stunting and dead stick landings amused the throng that packed the field.

Lionel Club To Hear Physician

Dr. W. B. Coffey, chief surgeon of the Southern Pacific company and co-discoverer of the Coffey-Humber serum experiments for the relief of cancer, has been obtained as the principal speaker at Tuesday's meeting of the Richmond Lions club.

His topic will be "Modern Medicine and the Public," and Dr. L. H. Fraser will be chairman of the day.

Lindberghs Land At Maine Town

NORTH HAVEN, Maine, Aug. 9.—UP—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh landed here at 4:50 p. m. (EST) today after a flight from Hicksville, N. Y.

Young Rally To Be Held Here

A group of local Gov. C. C. Young supporters is planning a Young rally dinner at the Hotel Carquinez Thursday night at 6:30 o'clock.

T. H. DeLap is in charge of the arrangements. Will C. Wood will be the speaker.

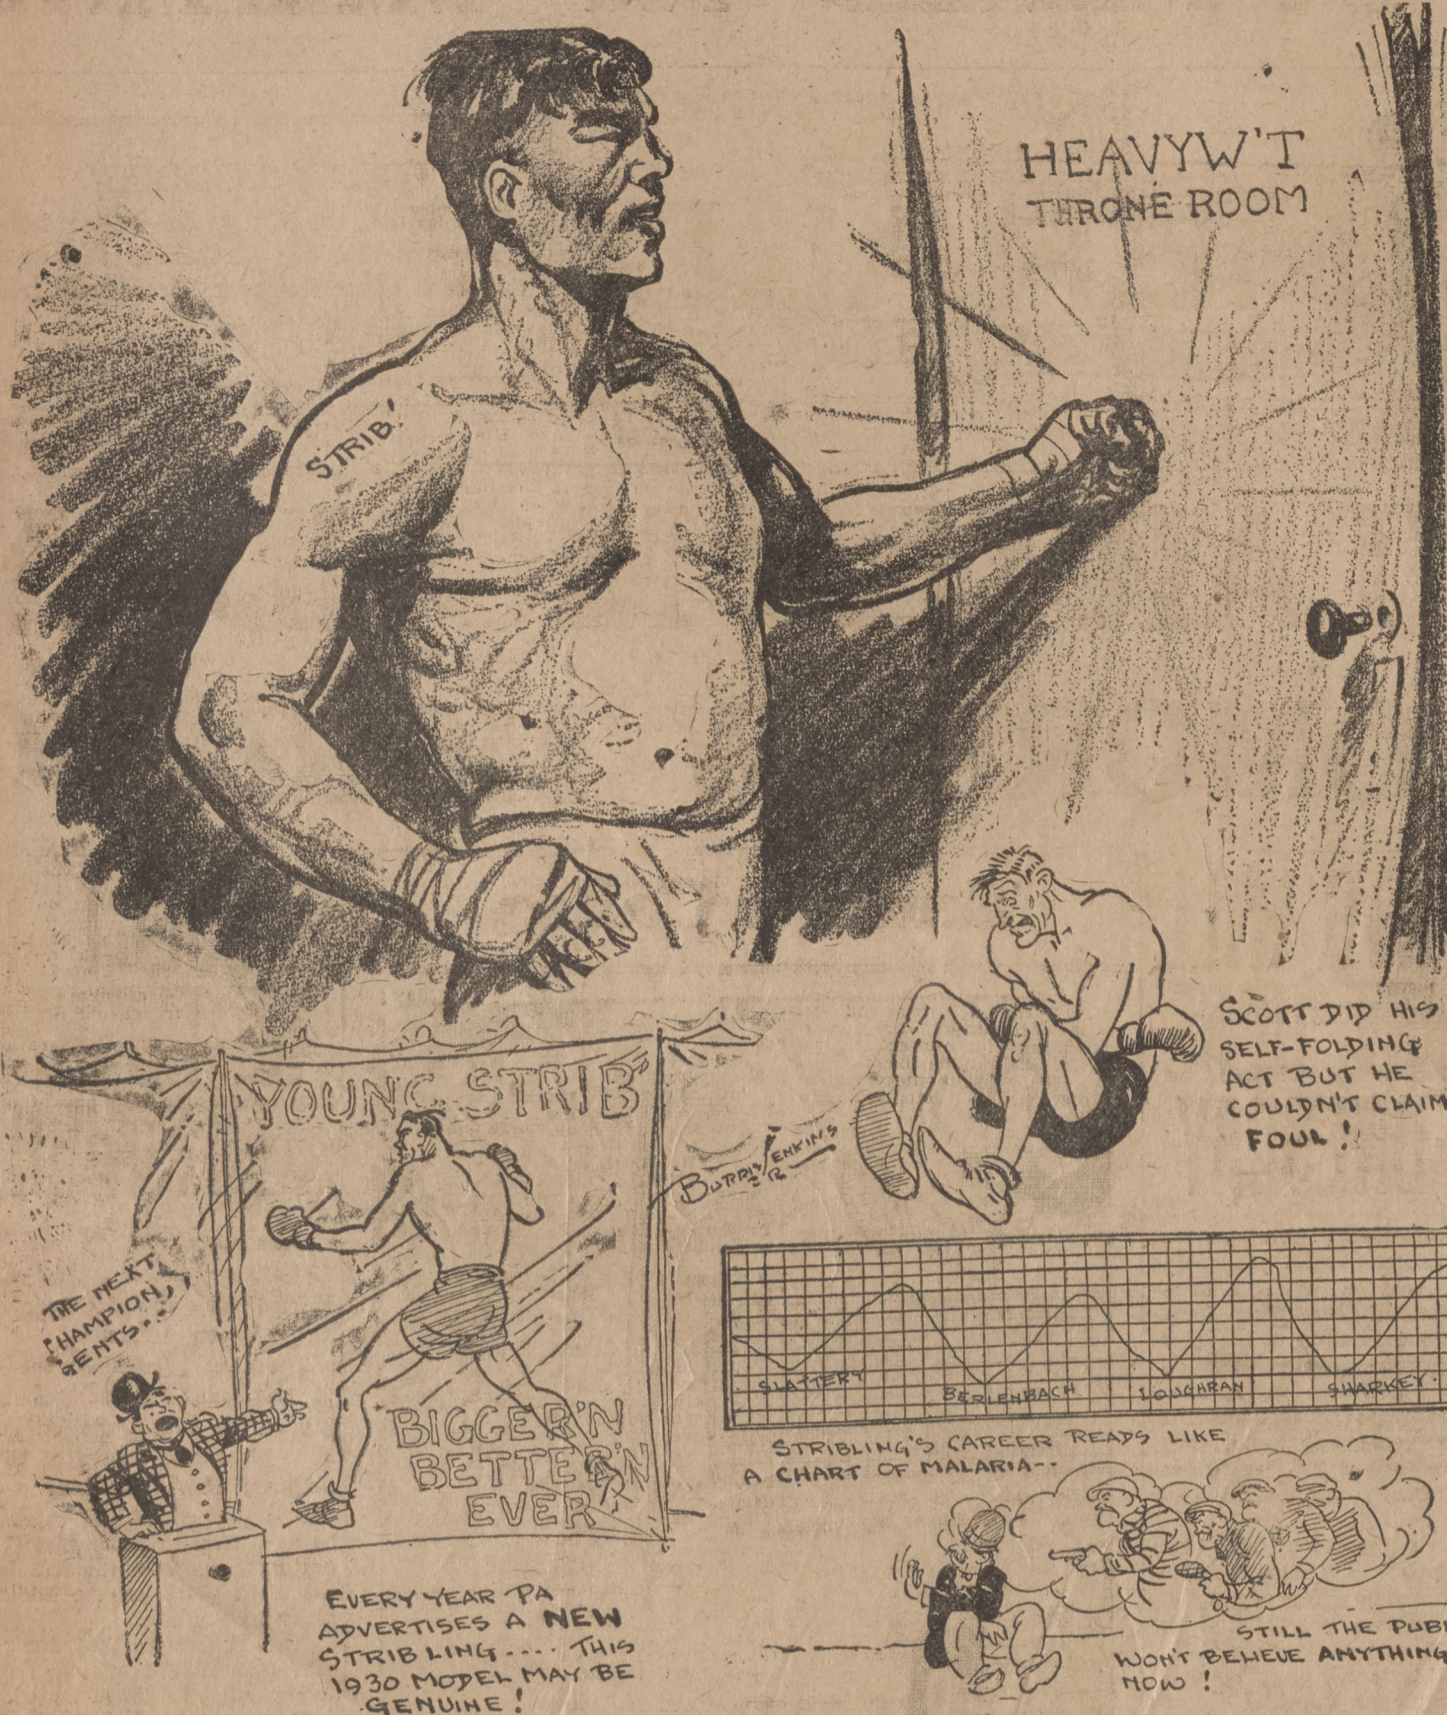

Aid Rushed To Ship In Distress

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—UP—Coast Guard stations reported a distress signal this afternoon from the Wilona, a sailing craft, and crews immediately put out to aid the vessel. The Wilona's position in Lake Michigan was given as eight miles north of Chicago.

Corey Nine To Meet Martinez There Today

The Corey Garage nine will travel to Martinez this afternoon to give battle to the Martinez Chrysler in the county seat. The Coreys are feeling quite optimistic as a result of their victory last Sunday over the Pleasanton Y. M. I. outfit. The Martinez athletes are also expected to succumb, although with a hard struggle, to the heavy hitting, wide-awake garagemen. Delight will perform the chucking for the local team, with Baldwin receiving.

Western Girl Beaten In Tennis

EAST HAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 9.—UP—Playing the same consistent game she displayed all week, Marjorie Morrill, Dedham, Mass., defeated Mary Grof, Kansas City, in the singles finals of the Maidstone Club's annual invitation tennis tournament here today, 6-3, 6-2. There was little in the match to cause excitement. The Massachusetts girl, who ranks No. 11, as compared to the number 6 position held by her opponent, took the lead from the start. Mixing deep court drives with short chops over the net, Miss Morrill completely baffled her more distinguished opponent.

Urge Care In Baby's Diet

CHICAGO.—UP—A baby's bill of fare is twice as important to his health as the menu his parents select for their own "three squares" a day, according to Esther Ackerson Fisher, dietitian, in an address here. "The adult's body is already formed," Mrs. Fisher pointed out, where as the infant's still is in the building stage. The right food will help the baby's growth and strengthen his bone and tissues. The wrong food not only will result in disease as well. What the baby eats is a subject that should be studied scientifically by his mother in cooperation with the family physician, who is the person best qualified to advise her on the youngster's diet. "In every baby's dietary, two vitamins are necessary, if the infant is to thrive. These are vitamins D and C. Without a supply of vitamin D, the baby is likely to develop rickets, a deforming disease which may permanently impair his health. A quantity of cod liver oil given regularly to the baby and frequent sun baths will prevent this condition. "Lack of vitamin C may cause scurvy. This can be avoided by feeding the infant orange or tomato juice in the early months of its life, since these foods are high in vitamin C and are easily assimilated by the baby's digestive system.

The main item on the baby's bill-of-fare however, is milk. Breast milk is recognized universally as the baby's best food. It is not possible for all mothers to nurse their babies, because of disabilities either to the mother or the infant. In such cases the feeding formula should be determined in consultation with a physician, since each baby is an individual case and requires attention.

Big Animal's Bones Found

GLENDIVE, Mont.—UP—Ages ago in what is now the district of Glendive, a prehistoric monster between 35 and 40 feet long and standing at least 15 feet high, roamed the land. Discovery of fossilized remnants of this huge beast was made the other day by Fred Meredith, who immediately notified J. S. Larimer, amateur paleontologist. The neck and shoulder blade were unearthed; the latter measured 12 feet from one end to the other. Because the fossilized bones indicated this monster is quite different from other fossils hitherto discovered in Montana, the American Museum of Natural History has been notified and requested to send investigators to excavate in the formation which holds fossils. Local paleontologists referred to the animal as trichertaepe. They estimated it existed in what was once an immense forest.

Girl Kidnaped From Cottage

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 9.—UP—Joseph P. Palino told police here today that his daughter, Mary, 22, had been kidnaped by a youth at a summer cottage in Ouset, Mass., last night. He named Attilio Manganaro, 23, of Providence, as the kidnaper. Manganaro, he said, is a medical student at Georgetown University.

According to his story, Mary and a chum, Cora-Ontello, of Providence, had been at a cottage in Ouset for a few days prior to the kidnaping. Last night Manganaro, accompanied by Alfred Fortier, of Providence, arrived at the cottage in an automobile. They told the landlady that a young woman wished to speak with Miss Palino. The landlady called the girl who then went out to the car. It was alleged that Manganaro seized the girl, and after a struggle plied her arms and forced her into the car.

Negro Attacks 3 White Women

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Aug. 9.—UP—Three white women were clubbed into unconsciousness by a negro who entered their homes in broad day light. Feeling was reported as running high on the west side of Chattanooga where the attacks occurred. The negro attempted to rob the women before attacking them. None of the victims was believed seriously injured. Several suspects were rounded up by police but none was identified as the clubber.

AGENT NAMED The New Richmond Land company of San Francisco has named L. J. Thole as their agent to handle the properties of the Walls second addition in Richmond.

Town In City At Exposition

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—UP—A town within a city has been created here to carry members of the present generation back to the days of grist mills and village smithies. In connection with Springfield's participating in the Massachusetts Bay Colony Tercentenary celebration, an old-time New England Colonial village has been established on the grounds of the Eastern States Exposition. Representing an investment of more than a quarter of a million dollars, the novel community consists of picturesque original buildings assembled here from various parts of New England. The village, where Colonial life will be portrayed this summer by men, women, and children in the costumes of pioneering days, includes a church, mansion, lawyer's office, red brick school house, tavern, store, Cape Cod cottage, and town hall. Grounds surrounding these buildings, landscaped attractively, face a typical small-town green or common, with the church, on a knoll, dominating the group.

Golf Fluke

CHORLTON-Cum HARDY England.—UP—Fred Garner, Grove from the fourteenth tee on the local golf course, pulled his drive into a bunker, uncovered another ball, played both out simultaneously, and holed out with his own.

RICHMONDELKS WILL MEET OAKS HERE

The Richmond Elks will this afternoon attempt to break into the winning column of the Northern California Elks baseball league when they tangle with the Oakland Athletics on the First street diamond. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock. In the first two games of the league, Richmond was nosed out by very narrow margins by the San Francisco and Alameda lodges. The local lodgesmen are now craving victory, and it is believed that the Oaklander will have a very difficult task in preventing them from satisfying that craving. The Richmond team has all the earmarks of a championship aggregation. In fact, they were in the finals of last year's Elks league and there seems to be no reason why they can't still climb the league ladder in a similar manner this season. The pitching staff of the local Elks squad includes Jiggs Wright, Peacock, Brendel, Taylor, Kozler, and Ellis.

Princess Sets Child Styles

LONDON.—UP—Little Princess Elizabeth, four-year-old daughter of the Duke and Duchess of York, still rules the fashions of England's nurseries. Her mother has chosen a particularly pretty wardrobe for the fourth lady in the land this spring. Once again many of her frocks will be a soft butter yellow color, which through its association with her has achieved the name, "Princess Betty Yellow." It is infinitely becoming to her bright golden hair and blue eyes. There are also to be some printed crepe de Chine dresses with flower posies. These are short and full, with tiny puffed sleeves, and they are expected to create a fashion for other very small young ladies. For very special occasions, such as parties, the little princess is to be arrayed in a frock that consists entirely of frills—a style which is said to find great favor with Her Royal Highness, who has labelled it her "party frock."

Matson Liner To Be Withdrawn

HONOLULU, T. H., Aug. 9.—UP—The Matson liner Wilhelmina will be withdrawn from the Honolulu-Portland-Seattle service upon its arrival at Portland on September 2, officials announced today. The Wilhelmina will be placed on the Honolulu-San Francisco run while the Malolo is on its annual Pacific cruise. The Freighter Manu-awili will replace the Wilhelmina in the Northwest service.

Film Star Fails To Save Man From Prison Sentence

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—UP—The fearful intervention of Maureen O'Sullivan, youthful Irish screen star, has failed to save Harry Billhart from a prison sentence. "Please don't send this boy to the penitentiary," Miss O'Sullivan begged the jury hearing Billhart's trial on a charge of stealing her automobile. "I got my car back and it wasn't damaged." The jury went so far as to ignore the theft charge, but convicted him of operating the car without consent of the owner, and he will be sentenced Monday. A prior conviction prevented probation action.

"Radionuity" Latest Fad

NEW YORK.—UP—A new game called "Radionuity" has been discovered and is being played on numerous radio sets during the morning hours when so many feminine voices are on the air. The voices, exuding the stereotyped radio sweetness, are found on various dial positions. By quickly turning from one conversation to another, the one, who in the opinion of the referee, produces the best continuity of sentence wins the sodas. It goes like this: "x x x x x two tablespoons of buttah, one of lard, the whites of six eggs—six yards of crepe de chine, a roll of blue ribbon with flower rosettes—have simply slain the ultra critical in Paris."

Log Cabin To Cost Million

LAKE GENEVA, Wis.—UP—Logs felled on beds of straw to prevent injury to their bark and then packed in straw and shipped here are being used in construction of a "million-dollar log cabin" for Harley L. Clarke, Chicago financier. Nearly 100 men have been working on the structure for more than a year. All the timber is hewn by hand. Even the shingles are hand-split. The project includes three separate buildings, the largest of which is a main lodge with 14 bedrooms. A refrigerating system in the basement will supply cool air to every room in the summer.

RICHMOND CLUB WILL HOLD 1ST. MEET. AUG. 18

The presentation of a three-act comedy, a fashion show, monthly card parties, a flower show, and talks on international relations, literature, music, citizenship, travel, and art will be included on the fall program of the Richmond Club which commences Aug. 18 with a luncheon to be held at the clubhouse.

The luncheon will be held under the direction of the new president, Mrs. W. W. Scarlett.

The presentation of a three-act comedy, "Three Wise Fools," will be the main fall activity of the season. Mrs. Zella Chapin will direct the production, which will be staged early in September.

A flower show will also be an important part of the club schedule for the fall term.

A reading section is also planned, in which the dues will be the loan of a book not over three years old for the period of the club term. A scrap book idea of literary notes has also been suggested.

A bridge party and fashion show are also planned for the coming year.

A monthly business meeting with a covered dish luncheon will be held throughout the term.

The assistants of Mrs. Scarlett for the coming year are:

First vice president, Mrs. Zella Chapin; second vice president, Mrs. J. C. Sutherland; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Clyde Parker; recording secretary, Mrs. Clifford Baughman; treasurer, Mrs. W. W. Scott.

Mrs. Scarlett has appointed the following members to department chairmanships:

Drama, Mrs. W. W. Chapin; music, Mrs. C. O. Bryant; international relations, Mrs. D. J. Hall; gardens, Mrs. Harry Marland; public welfare, Mrs. Billy Brown; literature, Mrs. Francis Kent.

The chairmen of the various committees are:

GUESTS ARE HONORED AT TEA PARTY

Mr. Otto A. Paulsen presided over a lovely bridge tea held in honor of three out-of-town visitors at the Paulsen home on Thirteenth street.

The guests of honor were Miss Adamae Dorman, of Boise, Idaho, and her mother, Mrs. Henry Dorman, and Mrs. Everett Laverling, of Long Beach. Miss Dorman is a student of the University of California.

The room in which the successful affair was held was tastefully decorated with many garden flowers.

The party was attended by many out of town maids and matrons, as well as several members of local social circles.

The out of town guests were: Mesdames Ida Rinn, of Hayward; John Bloomfield, Nampa, Idaho; Chris Mullins, Berkeley; Henry Hein, Woodlake; J. Bridgford, Oakland; A. M. S. Pierce, Piedmont; Fred Kitchner, Piedmont; Ida Davis, Oakland; George D. Worswick, San Jose.

The Misses D. Mullins, Berkeley; Hazel Moody, San Jose; Mildred Moody, San Jose; Lucia Runyon, Dunsmuir; and Mildred Worswick of San Jose.

Miss Ruth Soby Paid Honor At Charming Party

A pre-nuptial bridge luncheon was given in honor of Miss Ruth Soby of Richmond recently by Mrs. Neville E. Smith, of Rosalind avenue, Mira Vista. High score at the bridge game was won by Miss Bernice Ridenour.

Miss Soby is to become the bride of Lee Dyer next Saturday at St. Edmund's Episcopal church.

The guests at the luncheon given by Mrs. Smith were: Mrs. Clara King of Oakland; Miss Bernice Ridenour; Mrs. Lowell Russell; Mrs. Nathan Brown; Miss Laverne Pizzotti; and Miss Merle Davidson.

Miss Buchanan is Home From Vacation

A summer vacation spent partly in the east and partly at her home in Pittsburgh has just been concluded by Miss Norine Buchanan of the Richmond Union High school faculty.

Miss Buchanan was present at the national federation convention held at Columbus, Ohio, from June 28 to July 3. She visited New York and other eastern cities, and returned to California by way of the Canadian Rockies.

Miss Sara Spire Returns To City

Following a two months vacation spent in the eastern states, Miss Sara Spire and Miss Marie Landry of the Roosevelt Junior high school faculty have returned to Richmond for the fall semester.

Miss Spire stayed with relatives in Pittsburgh while Miss Landry went to Chicago. The teachers met in Chicago on the return trip. They returned by the New Orleans route and spent several days in New Orleans. They reported exceedingly hot weather in the eastern states.

Teachers Are Home From Tour Of Europe

A tour through nine European countries, an audience with the Pope at the Vatican, and a visit to the Passion Play at Oberammergau in Germany, were among the vacation experiences enjoyed by Miss Clara Hartnett and Miss Agnes Weatherston, Richmond school teachers.

The local women arrived in Richmond yesterday after spending almost two months in Europe.

The party of 35 with which they were traveling was conducted by a German professor and graduate of the University of Munich. They visited Switzerland, France, Italy, Austria, Germany, Belgium, Holland, England and Ireland. They returned to the United States aboard the Scythia. Miss Hartnett stayed in New York City, while Miss Weatherston visited friends in Boston and they later joined at Chicago.

Church and Sunday School

GRACE LUTHERAN CHURCH

Northwest corner of Thirteenth and Barrett. Rev. Guy L. Hudson, pastor.

A. E. J. Egan, Sunday school superintendent, Mrs. W. H. Page, choir director, Mrs. C. R. Baldwin, organist.

Bible school meets at 9:45 for a happy hour of song and study. The lesson for tomorrow will be the beautiful story of "Elijah, a God by Mother," and the text "My son, hear the instruction of thy father and forsake not the law of thy mother." It is admirably with the truths we aim to teach from Sabbath to Sabbath.

Rev. Hudson has prepared an excellent message on the theme, "Mountain-top Visions" and would be most happy to see a large number of people for the 11 o'clock service. Mrs. W. H. Page will sing, "Not a Sparrow Falteth," by Gilbert, Mrs. Mattie Brown, accompanist.

Luther League meets at 5:30 with Philip Johnson in charge of the devotional service. Subject "How to Become Truly Popular."

Folks, do you realize that Rev. Hudson and Mrs. Hudson have been among us almost two months now? And while the response to their efforts has been gratifying in many respects, still they feel that there are a large number who have not yet awakened to the fact that Grace Lutheran church has a real live pastor, in the field and one who is here to stay. He wants to do great things for our church and for Richmond, but he needs your help in order to put his program over. Come out and help strengthen his hand.

The choir meets as usual on Thursday evening at 7:30 for practice.

HELL'S HARBOR TO BE SHOWN AT FOX

Down among the sheltering palms of the Rocky Point Peninsula, near Tampa, Director Henry King and his motion picture company from Hollywood had built a village that is the background of "Hell Harbor," the newest vehicle featuring Lupe Velez, which comes to the Fox-California theater today.

Jean Hersholt, John Holland, Al St. John, Bibson Gowland, Director King and some sixty odd technicians and actors arrived from California sometime before Miss Velez. She reached them Monday, and there were all the brass bands and speeches and flying pennants that the enthusiastic Chamber of Commerce of Tampa could supply. In the past Florida had thrust forth its claims to sunshine and water and all the necessities for a motion picture; now the old flame is brightening anew.

It is as Anita Morgan, descendant of Sir Henry Morgan, the distinguished brigand, that Lupe Velez appears as, in Henry King's talking picture, Rida Johnson Young's novel "Out of the Night," has been adapted by Mrs. Fred de Gresac to the screen, and Clarke Silverman has supplied the dialogue. The robust quality attributed to the heroine of "The Cradle of the Deep," is said to be found in the character played by Miss Velez, and the story is acted out in a village of cut-throat pirates, one-legged Johns, suave knife-tossers, honky-tonk dancers and plain murderers. It is a tale of blood and thunder, beginning and ending with forthright killings. Chief among the unscrupulous gentry are Jean Hersholt and Bibson Gowland, the latter remembered chiefly by his performance in Erich von Stroheim's "Greed." John Holland, the young man who appeared opposite Eleanor Boardman in "She Goes to War" now has a role of a trader who is loved by the last of the Morgans.

Bright and early on the Tuesday morning after her Monday reception in Tampa, Lupe Velez began work in "Hell Harbor" at the Rocky Point location. Already "Peg Leg," pearl trader, had been killed and informed that his performance concluded he might return to Hollywood and further film acting. Harry Allen, the player of that role, dies in the first reel. Also Fox-Movietone News and Charlie Chase in "All Teed Up."

Mermaids To Lighten Beach

DEAUVILLE, France—UP—Trying to add a brighter golden gleam to its already golden sands, if not to get a little publicity, Deauville has appointed a score of dainty bathing belles whose principal job is to lie about the beach and look pretty.

Chosen from some of the smartest and slimmest of Paris maidens, these summer idlers already have been prepared for the job by undergoing a course of sun-treatment in a clinic in the metropolis so that they can have just that right shade of sun burn to start off the season properly.

Specially fitted, too, for the very latest thing in bathing suits, they will present figures of mermaid fashion as they lol under the Atlantic sun beneath the eyes of those who come to gaze.

When not sunning on the sands, they will promenade along the parade, this time as real mannikins, showing off the mode in women's summer frocks and hats.

Deauville's season lasts shorter than that of any other of the French resorts—it just runs for a few weeks—but each year the place blossoms forth with rich, sparkling attractions unrivaled by any other place in the world.

TALKIE SEASON WILL START AUG. 14

Greater Talkie Season starts at all theaters on August 14, according to advice received today from the office of A. M. Bowles, head of the Fox West Coast Theaters of which the Fox-California Theater is a part.

This annual event has taken on greater proportions this year it is said, due to the quality and quantity of super-talking pictures which are to be released from Hollywood's leading studios during the ensuing months.

Representatives of each studio seem bubbling over with enthusiasm due to the product they offer. If the statements they make and the previews they have offered are true forerunners of the fall season attractions than patrons of the motion picture theater may expect not only better stars and stories but a wider variety of entertainment with more perfect talking reproduction.

Each year the studios arrange to release their best pictures during the fall season, as at that time competition is keenest and public opinion is formed.

Some of the fine pictures to be offered by the Fox-California Theater of this city will include: "Big House," M. G. M. Special. "On The Level," with Victor McLaglen.

"So This is London," with Will Rogers.

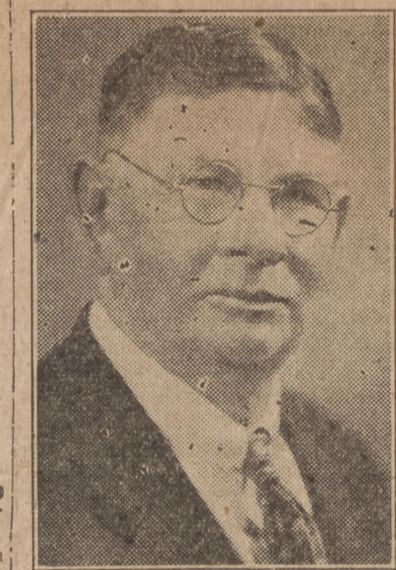

"Good Intentions," with Edmund Lowe.

"Let Us Be Gay," with Norma Shearer.

"Unholy Threesome," with Lon Chaney.

Japanese Cop Is Suspicious

TOKYO—UP—There's such a thing as being too polite, as seven Tokyo fishermen have found to their sorrow.

The seven had been in the habit of gambling in the back of a truck which took them to the central fish market, early each morning. The other day the driver of the truck was stopped for speeding and the fishermen were sure that their illegal activities had been observed. The policeman had failed to observe them, however, and ordered the truck driver to proceed.

In their relief the gamblers arose and bowed several times to the officer. Now, even in Japan a traffic cop isn't showered with politeness, and this particular officer, growing suspicious, commandeered a taxi and followed the truck, overtaking it in time to catch the gamblers red-handed.

Cow Fighter Meets Death

MADRID, UP—At Sanlucar de Barrameda, Andalusia, some cows on the ranch of don Hermengildo Diez were being vaccinated, when a bull-fighting fan, Jose Roldan Bernaldez, 28 years old, decided to stage an impromptu "cow-fight." His first attempt to give a pass to a cow was his last, for he was hit square in the chest and died a few minutes later.

Bull-fighters in the winter and spring often participate in cow-fights at various ranches. Technically, there is no reason why cows could not be used for a formal fiesta—it is a question of taste and tradition that determines that the toreros shall risk their lives in the ring only against bulls. When they do risk their lives against cows, it is done more-or-less in private.

HOOVER PAID HONOR WITH NATAL FETE

LURAY, Va., Aug. 9.—UP—There was a surprise party up in the pine trees of dark hollow in the Blue Ridge Mountains tonight on the eve of the 56th birthday of President Hoover.

Keeping the President's attention diverted, Mr. Hoover with two of her friends, Mrs. Edgar Rickard of New York, and Mrs. Stark McMullin of Palo Alto, Calif., busied themselves in the Rapidan camp today setting the table for the surprise.

An angel food cake, the kind the President likes, was baked yesterday by the White House chef, 56 pink and white candles were mounted on it, and it was carted 100 miles over stretches of rough road to sit in the middle of the pine forest dining hall table. When the cake was brought in at dinner, Mr. Hoover attempted with one mighty gust to blow out 56 candles at once. No gifts were exchanged, in keeping with the custom in the Hoover family. They have never made much of birthdays and have given each passing one less attention. Small remembrances were placed at the plate of each guest.

The President was in good spirits for the occasion. His personal physician, Captain Joel T. Boone, asserted he was never in better physical condition, denying the strain of the presidency was having an effect upon him.

"Regular exercise and a regular life have made me physically fit," said Dr. Boone. "I believe the cooling system in the executive offices and regular week ends here in the camp have saved him from the rigors of an unusually hot summer."

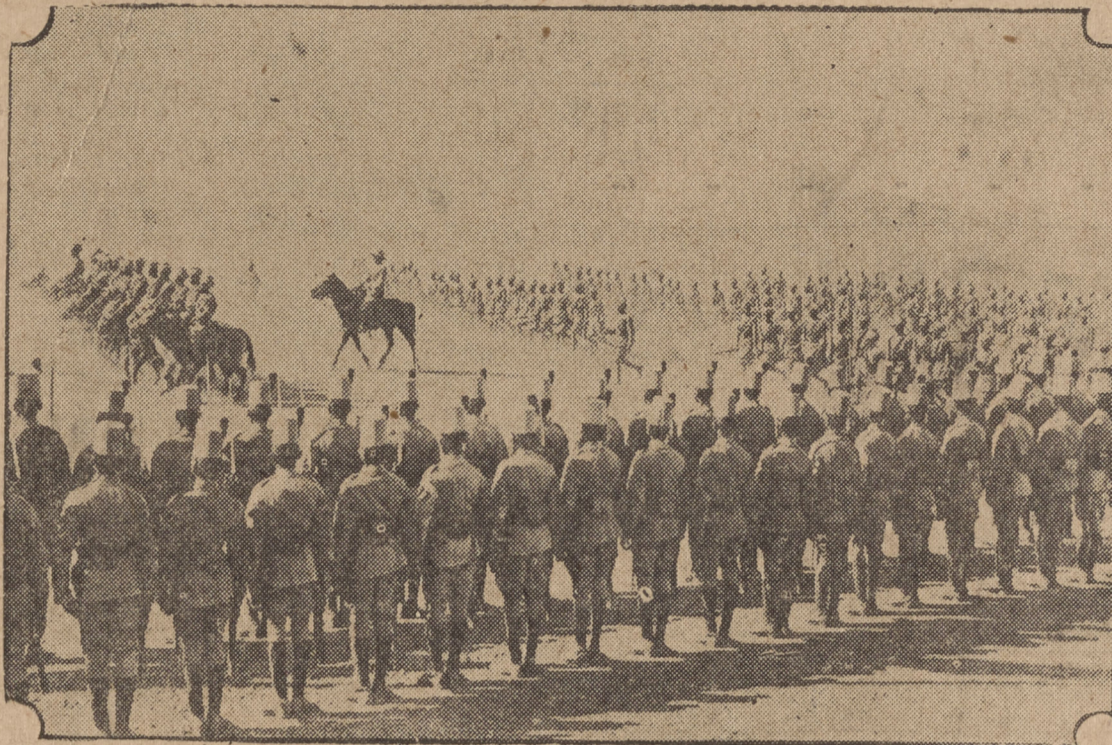

Troy Boy Has Rare Malady

TROY, N. Y.—UP—Physician's at Leonard hospital here are making a long fight to save the life of Leo Friedel, 12, a victim of the rare and deadly malady, hemophilia. Leo's addition to the disease was discovered when his mother, Mrs. Leo R. Friedel, took him to a dentist to have a tooth pulled. The gum bled for a week and the boy was taken to the hospital. His mother submitted to a blood transfusion. Four other volunteers also gave blood. But after momentary improvement, the boy's condition got gradually worse. Little hope is held for his recovery. Hemophilia is the medical term for free bleeding. The slightest injury may cause the victim to bleed to death. The Czarvitch of Russia, slain by his parents and sisters by the Bolsheviks was a victim of the malady.

NATION MOVES TO AID VICTIMS OF DROUGHT IN EASTERN STATES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—UP—Effects of the drought were pictured in grave terms here tonight as federal and unofficial agencies moved to deal with the emergency.

Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, describing the drought as a calamity, declared every man, woman and child will suffer indirect consequences of it.

The Red Cross instructed its 3,500 chapters to tide over suffering families and help in every other way.

Legge Summoned

Chairman Alexander Legge of the Federal Farm Board, was summoned back from the west by airplane to attend the White House conference of Governors Thursday from the 12 states most seriously affected.

The interstate commerce commission approved informal requests of railroads to reduce rates on an emergency basis on livestock, feeds and water in drought states.

Crop insurance was advocated for the future in a statement by Benjamin C. Marsh, secretary of the People's lobby.

Vice Chairman Stone of the Federal Farm board returned from the tobacco belt, declaring that the situation was grave with the prospect of losing half the barley crop unless there is rain within ten days.

Stone went with Secretary Hyde to the Rapidan camp tonight to confer with President Hoover on relief measures.

NO BREAK IS SEEN IN DROUGHT

CHICAGO, Aug. 9.—UP—Dry heat continued to plague the midwest tonight. Crop damage mounted at an alarming rate. The weather bureau predicted some relief from the heat.

but saw no break in the drought before the end of next week.

Rain fell today on the fringes of the drought area, moistening parched farm lands in Northern Wisconsin, Michigan and Western Pennsylvania. Otherwise the government weather maps showed no precipitation in grain growing parts of Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Minnesota, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee.

Even "soakers" would be too late to save all of the crops in the plains states. In Iowa, Illinois and Indiana, the corn was burned in the stalk.

Large Loss

"Last week's crop loss estimate of $300,000,000, reached a half billion on the strength of later reports from farm bureaus and grain dealers in rural communities.

Speculators took advantage of the "drought market" on the Chicago board of trade. They sold grain in the final session of the week in such quantities as to depress prices slightly below the week's high. Previously corn had passed the dollar mark for the first time in months.

Farm leaders said the drought would "pay its way" in reducing surpluses and bring higher prices. Agrarian experts advised their constituents in marketing and management methods to turn the dry spell to an advantage. Due to feeding problems in the cattle country beef prices came down. Livestock men predicted they would shoot up in the autumn.

Campers in the northern woods were asked to use every precaution against fires. Timberlands in Minnesota and other sections are powder dry. Fifty fires in Minnesota today, mostly small tracts, covered parts of the state with an acrid blue haze.

Cool Weather

The following forecast was sent out for the ensuing week:

Great Lakes Region—Fair and cool beginning of week, followed by unsettled and warmer with showers toward end of week.

Upper and Lower Mississippi Valley and Central Great Plains—Mostly fair and rather cool beginning of week, except moderately warmer in extreme southern portions, followed by unsettled and somewhat warmer toward the middle and end of week, possibly showers.

Sweltering residents of the central states were grateful for the promise of cooler weather, even if for only a few days. It contained little hope, however, for the crops. Another six days of drought might increase grain losses several more millions.

Eggs Hatched

Smiles and tears figured in reports from the heat oppressed communities of the midwest.

JOHNSON CITY, Ill.—John Hobbs exhibited six motherless chicks which he said had been hatched by the weather after he had placed the eggs in a shed to keep them cool.

AMES, Iowa—Cow-testing association reports reveal that due to the heat and drought, Iowa herds produced 7,900,000 pounds less butter fat in July than in May.

143 Degrees

Prarie City, Iowa—Tank cars were used to bring water here to complete a street paving job when the town's water supply ran dangerously low.

MARION, Ill.—It was so hot here that an egg was poached in a pan of water which the sun heated on a city sidewalk. A thermometer on the fender of an automobile registered 143 degrees. Inside the car it climbed to 148 after the windows had been closed.

BOY TAKES 11,000 VOLTS

TREMONTON, Utah.—UP—A 10-year-old boy here had something even better than an operation to tell his playmates about when he emerged with his life after an encounter with 11,000 volts of electricity.

He was forced to remain in bed and receive treatment for severe burns, but he was proud to know that he had been touched by four times the amount of electricity used to execute criminals and had been able to crawl to a house unaided.

Dean Yoder was a hero to his playmates after his experience.

The youth was playing on the roof of a barn near his home. He slipped, threw his arms up to regain his balance, and his arm hit a wire carrying 11,000 volts of electricity. He shock hurled him off the barn to the roof of a slanting shed, and to the ground. He immediately started crawling to the back door of a neighbor.

Physicians and officials familiar with the effects of electric shocks were of the opinion that the fall from the barn acted as a counter-shock. They could think of no other factor that entered to save the boy's life.

vice commission postponed allowing telephone rate increases on the ground that subscribers were so hard hit by the drought they would be unable to pay.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Golfers at the Illinois country club have agreed that all who are playing golf when and if it rains would throw themselves flat on the ground and give the rain a chance to do its worst.

ST. LOUIS—Mrs. Nellie McFadden asked the pastors of St. Louis to appeal for rain in their prayers at Sunday services.

MT. VERNON, Ind.—Famished grasshoppers destroyed a 70-acre field of grain and then ate the weeds which bordered the field.

AIR POLICING SET AT WORK

GRAND ISLAND, Neb.—UP—A giant policeman of the air, with delicate ears that can detect any infringement of radio laws, now is on duty here to see that radio stations stay within the channels and wave lengths assigned them.

The "policeman," a great monitor station, was built by the federal government at a cost of approximately $150,000. When the station begins its full schedule of operation of 24 hours a day, the working force will number 25 or 30 men.

Hundreds of miles of wire strung on tall posts are the feeders of air which report their findings through one of the most powerful, as well as complete and modern, receiving sets in the world. Every radio station in the country, as well as many in a number of foreign countries, can be "tuned in" on this monitor set.

By means of the equipment, the station will be able to measure the power and wave length of any station in the United States. If any violations of the rules of the air are detected, the big stick of the air will be wielded on behalf of the federal radio commission.

Grand Island was chosen as the site of the monitor station because of its central location in the United States and the almost complete absence of local interference. When the station is in full operation, it is hoped that radio interference, that bane of radio listeners, will be substantially reduced.

She Speaks One At Time

WASHINGTON, N. C.—UP—After an elderly woman demanded to discuss the issue in question with Beaufort county commissioners "one at a time," it was decided to defer action until August in the matter of continuing work of the county home demonstration agent.

Fifty women appeared before the board to urge retention of the agent's services.

The elderly woman took the floor.

"Mr. Chairman," she said, "I ain't much for talking to a big bunch of men like this, but I sure can tell it to 'em one at a time. If you all are thinking of doing away with the home demonstration agent, I'd like to have the opportunity of seeing

119 Coal Miners Killed During Month Of June

WASHINGTON, UP—The production of 38,897,000 tons of coal during the month of June carried with it the deaths of 119 men, according to a report received from state mine inspectors by the Bureau of Mines. Twenty-five men were killed in the anthracite district of Pennsylvania and 94 fatalities were recorded in the bituminous mines in various states.

For the 33,714,000 tons of bituminous coal mined during this period, the corresponding death rate was 2.79, while that for the anthracite region, which produced 5,183,000 tons, was 4.82. The period a year ago was less favorable, a total of 43,649,000 tons mined, resulting in 16 fatalities.

For the first six months in 1930 there were 979 deaths from mine accidents as compared with 1,013 for the same period in 1929. Fatalities resulting from haulage and explosions were reduced in the first half of this year, but an increase is shown in accidents caused by roof and coal falls, gas or dust explosions and electricity.

Prices Cut In Mexican Beer 'War'

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 9.—UP—Thousands of thirsty Americans today fought for places at the brass rails of Juarez, Mexico, saloons where real old fashioned beer sold for five cents a glass as a result of a beer war.

Three thousand persons lined the rail at the Old Mexico bar. Juarez police abandoned the task of arresting the drunks when it became hopeless as hundreds of tourists in sweltering El Paso made the most of their opportunities across the Rio Grande.

Police confined their activity to arresting only those who were unable to stagger across the international bridges unassisted.

The five cent price on beer was the answer of a combination of breweries in Chihuahua City, Monterey and Juarez against invading Breweries of Mexico City and Sabinas. The product of the latter brewery is manufactured by a former St. Louis brewer.

A combination of bartenders headed by Joe Mogel of the Castle Bar started the war with a declaration that they were being charged excessive prices for the product of the Chihuahua City, Monterey and Juarez breweries, and pledged themselves to sell only the Mexico City and Sabinas beer.

Their delegation was met by the price slash of the nearby breweries, and some bartenders threatened to give beer away free if the Mogel faction stuck by its declaration.

Tourists unaccustomed to Mexican saloon practices, were heard to ask bartenders if free lunch was served with the elfe cent beer.

"What do you want for a nickel?" was the invariable reply.

Williams Sets New Speed Mark

TORONTO, Ont., Aug.—UP—Percy Williams, of Vancouver, B. C., sprint champion, today was credited with breaking the world mark for the 100-metre dash when he covered the distance in 10 3-10 seconds.

Running in the Canadian championship games, the flying track star clipped a tenth of a second from the old record, held by Eddie Tolan, University of Michigan speedster.

Williams won by three yards from John Fitzpatrick, Hamilton, Ont., runner, and Ralph Adams, also of Hamilton, who closed in third place.

Time Savers

The great American instinct is to save time—a lot of time—and then some more time. In the big affairs and the little things of life, time is the most valuable thing at our command.

Limited trains, automatic telephones, special editions of newspapers, sixty-miles-an-hour automobiles, airplanes still faster—we have these things in answer to our demand for speed. And an equally important time saver in the lives of people today is advertising. Just as surely as any other modern service, the advertisements bridge hours and days for people who have wants to be filled.

Readers of advertisements are the same people who demand the utmost efficiency in communication, in business, in their daily life. They know that a few minutes' reading of the advertisements will tell them more about products, values and the intelligent spending of their money than they could discover in days by any other method.

And like the other great time savers, advertisements save money and energy, as well. The reading of them is a genuine human economy.

Two Witnesses for the Defense

MARRIAGE would seem, at present, to be the yellow dog of the cynics and exaltists of the novelists, philosophers and psycho-analysts. All of whom are finding their several reasons for attacking the so-called Divine Institution—

Isn't true

That EVERY marriage is a fore-ordained failure, the death of love, and joy for women—Why we have admitted frequently in this column That we think marriage can be a success. And that, when it does succeed, it is the richest and happiest of human relationships. Perhaps, then, our readers think us optimistically prejudiced and blinded. Perhaps they're tired of hearing our personal reaction on this particular topic—Therefore, to-day, we present two other witnesses for the defense of marriage—A man and a woman, who have written two interesting letters on the subject—Letters which should give aid and comfort. To all the faint-hearted females who hope for the best in their married life. But seem almost driven by current cynicism to expect the worst. "You know, I'm a pretty normal wife and mother," begins the testimony of Esther L. Schwartz. "I admit I fell in love in the old-fashioned way. "And married for love, too. "And after ten more or less eventful years I'm still in love. "And my husband, poor benighted soul that he is, "Claims he is still in love also. "Wherever I go, where there are more than two or three women. "The subject of marriage seems to pop up somehow. "And the women all seem to be complaining. "When I timidly suggest that there may be such a thing as a happy marriage. "I'm stepped on, routed out of the place and almost demoralized. "I feel as if I'm sort of queer. "For daring to voice what is an honest conviction! "Then they start on the children. "Nobody ought to raise a family. "Children are only the result of a moment's madness on the part of the parents. "And nobody ever wanted a baby, and all that sort of thing. "If I dare to say that I had babies because we both wanted them. "And that I regret the physical illness which prevented me from having more. "They laugh in my face. "If I say that I think keeping house can be rather nice. "And that one can manage to slide through the days without dying of ennui. "That's supposed to be freakish, too. "What long ago in your column a young lady ridiculed me "For saying that one could be happy though married. "Happy though poor. "Happy though one had a family and not an over-abundance of what are termed good times. "Now I ask you, am I all wrong? "Am I living in a fool's paradise. "And is there nobody in this world who will agree with me "That there can be such a thing as a happy marriage. "Children who are wanted and loved. "And a woman who is content with a simple little home and the care of it. "Am I some sort of a relic of the dark ages. "Or am I just bumping into the wrong sort of women? "We are perfectly confident that there are plenty of women to agree with Mrs. Schwartz. "And we know there's one man, because we have received from Richard Savage the following testimony, which makes him the second witness for the defense of marriage. "Your tribute to Sir Arthur Conan Doyle and his wife was well expressed and true," begins Mr. Savage. "The beautiful affection which was matured through the years. "Or their loving, loyal and devoted marriage comradeship never dies. "Marriage is the only human relationship "That can develop a true, loyal, loving comradeship. "Between two human beings in this material world. "A devoted comradeship that is nurtured. "Through years of married happiness, sorrow, cares and loyalty. "From which there grows to spiritual maturity. "That deeper, truer and nobler affection of our better natures. "Giving immortality to the soul of humankind. "That, to me, is the true greatness, grandeur and glory of human marriage." Here, then, is the woman of it and the man of it, in defense of the happy, lifelong union of man and woman. Naturally, perhaps, the woman defends it. In terms of homely, intimate, domestic detail. Speaking out of her own experience with old-fashioned romance. With the joys of parenthood deliberately and enthusiastically undertaken. Even with a feminine satisfaction in keeping house.

For kicking it all over the place, until an innocent bystander feels moved to quote the favorite song of the late Champ Clark— "Makes no difference if he is a houn. "You gotta stop kicking my dog around." Probably it was wise to dispel the myth that ALL marriages are made in heaven. But some of us find equally mythical the modern assumption That ALL marriages are the equivalent of the Other Place! Certainly, we receive plenty of letters from romantic girls and impressionable young wives. Asking us, in effect, to "say it ain't so!" And since we have the best of reasons for believing it

And a feminine spirit of pluck and cheerfulness in enduring comparative poverty. And in practicing self-denial and simplicity of living. The man, on the other hand, endorses marriage in a more impersonal fashion. Trying to put into words the ideal love which it matches. The star to which the wagon of domestic love and loyalty is hitched. But it seems to us that each of these two symptoms of marriage is moved by an equal sincerity, a kindred depth of feeling. And it seems to us that between them they state admirably the case for marriage as it may be. A day-by-day relationship of quiet, honest, sound delight in little things. And a lifelong inspiration toward the highest beauty and truth Which man and woman may know together.

THINK IT OVER

By Alfalfa Smith

IT seems to me that the reason engagements are so happy and married life so often a word-battle is because, prior to their marriage, a young couple do not have to worry about the grocer's bills. It might be a good idea for wives to remember that when they married the man of their choice they contracted with the State to live together and NOT TO BOTHER THE STATE. To get back to the grocer's bills, let me say that if you have credit at a food store, it would be a splendid idea to pay your bill NOW. As summer is a slack time and something—anything would be appreciated. You realize that merchants are apt to be afraid of pressing their bills because they might offend the customer. By the way, in case you always have a word-battle with your husband over bills, why not write him a note? UNDERSTANDING AVOIDS MIS-UNDERSTANDING.

Oh, Go to Bed

By Eliot Kays Stone

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

"WHAT kind of a light is this, Dad?" "A kerosene lamp." "What makes the light?" "The kerosene burning at the end of the wick." "What's the wick?" "A band of loosely woven fibres prepared especially for burning kerosene or other oils." "What's kerosene?" "A fluid oil, something like gasoline, refined from petroleum." "Why doesn't it explode when it's lit?" "Oh, go to bed."

Keeping the Gas Bill Down

A FULL oven uses no more gas than an empty one, so plan your baking, etc., to keep the oven full while the gas is lighted. Dish water may be heated in the oven while the dinner is cooking. Prunes will taste better if stewed in the oven, and this can be done while the meat is roasting. Roast potatoes in the pan with the meat or bake them on the side. Use casserole dishes during the summer and plan to bake biscuits, cakes, etc., at the same time. A little planning in oven cooking will mean a great saving on the gas bill as well as less heat in the kitchen.

For the Bumps and Bruises

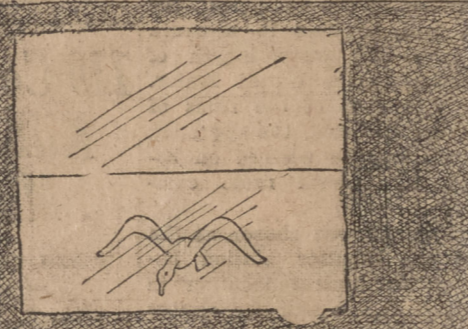

DURING vacation days bumps and bruises are frequent. The normal child will not fuss over an ordinary bump, but if the injury is severe it should not be neglected. If there is much swelling, but the skin is not broken, the swelling should be reduced and treated to prevent discoloration and for this purpose cold applications are the best. Wring cloths out of cold water and apply to the affected part for half an hour, changing the cloths frequently. Then apply witch hazel or any soothing lotion on a gauze pad. If skin is broken, gently remove all dirt by washing, then dry carefully and paint with mercuriochrome or tincture of iodine (half strength) and cover with a piece of clean gauze held in place by strips of adhesive plaster.

Tunic Blouse Bed For Short Figure

By Marguerite Barnes

THE tunic blouse reaching well below the knee is an important fashion note for fall. The model at left is an attractive example, but the sketch illustrates how unbecoming it can be when chosen by a short woman. It cuts her figure with a horizontal line and makes her look as if she were wearing a larger woman's blouse. The color contrast between blouse and skirt also accentuates this bad feature. For this type, the dress at right, which is all one color, has seaming on the skirt just where a blouse might end and gives a blouse effect, is much better. It is smaller in proportion to her figure, and the white satin vest and tie give enough accent.

Keeping Your Rugs

By Catherine Wood

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

A RUG that turned out to be worth several hundred dollars was thrown out with the junk in a rooming house recently, presumably because it was "old" and had a couple of holes in it.

How many of us know much about our rugs or how to care for them? It is always necessary to send them to the cleaners or the dyers or to storage in order to preserve them, although unless their care is understood that is, of course, the wiser plan.

A real lover of rugs regards them as an art lover does his pictures, and he knows that they are easily ruined by negligence or by careless cleaning or renovating, but it is not always convenient to send them away, and to do one's own self is an economy easily practiced. Oriental rugs should never be beaten, never suctioned by the vacuum cleaner, never swept by too stiff a broom. They should be scoured with a brush with stiff but not harsh bristles is dipped in gasoline and the rug gently but firmly scrubbed. Then the process repeated with clean gasoline will transform almost any soiled Oriental rug into its pristine beauty, bringing up the beautiful colors like magic.

Naturally, not all Oriental rugs can be subjected to precisely the same process. The priceless ones should be turned over to rug artisans who understand their rugs as a good breeder knows his prize cattle. These artisans are skilled not only in the various weaves but they know how to preserve or restore the vegetable dyes of old Oriental rugs and the colors. But as there are few of these capable rug specialists in the country, the suggestions of one of them who has passed on here should be appreciated.

Your rug should lie smooth and flat upon the floor, all corners square, all edges down. If you find the edges turning up or wrinkling, you will find the pattern working itself out of shape and you should straighten it out at once, as with time it will be increasingly difficult to do so.

And remember that no matter how worn or torn or apparently hopelessly stained a fine rug may be it is folly to throw it away. Its faded colors can be brought back to all their original brightness, holes may be repaired by reweaving without altering the pattern; even the size of most rugs may be changed without impairing the design. These things, of course, have to be done by skilled artisans who understand the ancient art, men who have the extraordinary patience and precision with exactly the right colors each of the thousands of little knots which go into the making of an Oriental rug.

A prayer rug once torn and soiled beyond what seemed any possibility of restoration has just been presented to a small town museum miraculously transformed. Its original size was 6 feet 4 inches by 4 feet. It is now nine inches shorter, but the portion taken away was deleted in such a manner as scarcely to change the pattern.

Domestic rugs and carpets may be subjected to a soap and water scrub, usually without injury to the color and texture. If the soap is mild one and is thoroughly removed with clear rinse water. In placing rugs on your floors there is as the Orientalists know, something more than art—there is science and, according to them, luck also. So if things seem to be going this way and that with you instead of smoothly, try changing the rug or the rug around—any rug in your place which you feel might be changed to advantage, so that the pattern will be toward the head of your bed, is toward the east.

To-Day's Good Manners

By Millicent James

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

LIFE to-day has to be highly spiced with variety to satisfy most of us, and anything, so it is the cry—not only of those who have money to burn or time to kill, but of the wage-earner and the average person whoever he or she may be.

In this connection it is significant that the trend is gradually turning back to simpler forms of entertaining, and to entertaining in one's own place, however unpretentious that place may or may not be. Personally, I think this is one of the most to-be-desired points in the whole new scheme of things social.

The concern, of course, is to have the home afford to the guests entertaining as possible, and of course the most important factor is the food. It's the most important factor of an entertaining as surely as it is the chief factor of a picnic in the woods. At any time of the year, and particularly in the summer time, the two most delightful meals at which to entertain are breakfasts and Sunday night suppers—and just now it is particularly smart to give breakfasts and Sunday night suppers, if that means anything to you.

Breakfast—the hour for them is either 11 or 12—and unless your guests are of the leisure class, these too must be given on Sunday—is a simple meal, but meticulous care should be taken to make it a delightful simplicity, for the morning hours are uncharitable ones. Their light is the soft, beautiful light of dinner-time, and candles may not be used on the table. Flowers are substituted, for freshness is the keynote. So a bowl of flowers or other arrangement for the center of the table, linen, gayly-colored, and "china" and silver spotted and shining—the former preferably one of the highly-colored wares, if you have it. The coffee-service—coffee-pot, sugar and creamer on a tray—should be placed at your right on the table, cups in saucers, with spoons at left, dessert fork and napkin at left of the breakfast plate, and breakfast knife and dessert spoon for cereal at right, bread and butter plate at upper left of breakfast plate, with butter-knife and butter knife on it.

A typical menu would be, shall we say, a delicious, crisp, cold salad of glass of orange juice; cereal and crisp bacon, or ham and eggs, or perhaps creamed codfish in a casserole, with popovers or muffins of one sort or tea, if you please. The hot dishes must be piping hot and the cold ones thoroughly chilled. The Sunday night supper is usually a buffet one with the viands on the buffet and the guests serving themselves. On a table—it may be the dining-table or a side or occasional table, or on the buffet, if it is large enough, will be arranged the pile of plates, the other china required and the glass and the silver.

The list of suitable dishes is limitless, but as a suggestion, say, chicken with rice. There should be one hot dish, kept hot on a grill or in a chafing dish, cold cuts and salad, with cake and sherbets, cheese and crackers, coffee. Creamed chicken, lobster Newburg or Welsh rabbit in a chafing dish, with an electric toaster and piles of cut bread for guests to make their own toast and to serve themselves from the chafing dishes, is as interesting as anything to serve. If there are to be but six guests or fewer, it is better to serve a cozy, sitdown supper, when much the same type of menu answers the purpose.

It Is Said

You can renew a used-up dry cell battery for quite a time if you punch holes in the zinc casing and place the cell in a glass jar full of vinegar. One pound of shrimp crabmeat or lobster will be sufficient for ten individual salads.

Washing in Warm Weather

DURING warm weather even the thrifty housewife has the bulk of her washing done on the outside. Yet, paradoxically, with so many changes of underclothing absolutely essential for everyone at this time of the year, it is advisable for us to cultivate a regular habit of washing our necessities. To this end a few timely hints on washing should not be amiss.

According to Mrs. Phyllis E. Dunning, the first step is to divide the cottons and linens from the silk and wool articles. Silk and wool materials cannot stand as strong a soap solution and often do not need as much rubbing as the cottons and linens. To avoid any possibility of permanently staining anything, lukewarm water for washing is always preferable. Test you do not know, certain stains on cloths soluble in lukewarm water may become permanent marks if put into hot water. Also remember that cleansing is effected by the forcing of soapy water through the fabric. Considerably less soaking than is generally estimated is necessary, if a lukewarm sudsy water is used.

Give linens and cottons a hot rinse. So warm can be done by hot water in the rinsing bath since the lukewarm water used previously for washing has taken care of the stains. Nevertheless, stick to the lukewarm water even for the rinsing of silks and wools. Always rinse cloths thoroughly, two rinsings being none too much. Clothes will look as bright as the better for it.

Doorways That Welcome

WITHOUT benefit of the observation of the census-taker, we venture that there are thousands upon thousands of dirty doorways in these United States. Apartments and homes that are welcoming when glimpsed from within frequently have outer doorways appallingly soiled by dirt and streaks of grime due to the weather, and edges laden with dust. We have seen lordly ladies and lovely ladies trooping out of their cleverly decorated and furnished apartments through outer doors that were a sight to behold.

Many a Martha-by-the-day makes the interior sweet and smilingly clean but never so much as glances at the condition of the entrance door. A weekly cleansing with warm water, a clean cloth and a mild soap is none too often to keep a white door looking freshly and inviting. A little wax used frequently upon the dark door will help to keep its surface free from dust and dirt.

Consider your doorway from the viewpoint of those who will enter there. Many a host or hostess is greeted by a guest with a smile whose critical eyes have first widened at the dirt upon the doorway. So keep your doors clean, in and out.

Your Own Screen For Home Movies

WHAT'S the point of having a moving picture camera for vacation days unless there is a good movie screen at home on which to throw the pictures? This can be made by the handy man, and he need not be so handy at that.

The most simple screen to make is a board cut to fit a large picture frame. Another type of screen is that cut to any size desired from a piece of stout wallboard, neatly framed and painted.

To all intents and purposes a realistic silver screen may be achieved by painting the wallboard with aluminum paint, a method simple enough and quickly done.

Photographs thrown on the aluminum surfaced screen will be produced in projection with a feeling of depth not possible in a flat white medium such as plain cardboard. A still more effective screen can be made by painting the wallboard with flat white paint and white enamel, dusting the surface with several handfuls of small clear glass beads. The same sense of depth will be given pictures shown on this screen.

Brown and White In Jewelry?

THE summer color scheme of brown and white, or brown and yellow, as a forecast of brown tones for autumn, has bobbed up in no less than the sports necklace. A strand of beads in brown and white galathea shows two sizes, each large bead alternated with a very small one. This is but another inexpensive way of adding the discreet touch of brown to the sports costume of all white worn with brown and white footwear, and perhaps a brown straw hat. Similarly sports necklaces with matching bracelets of costume origin are in red and white combination, also of galathea, to carry out the fashionable red and white theme.

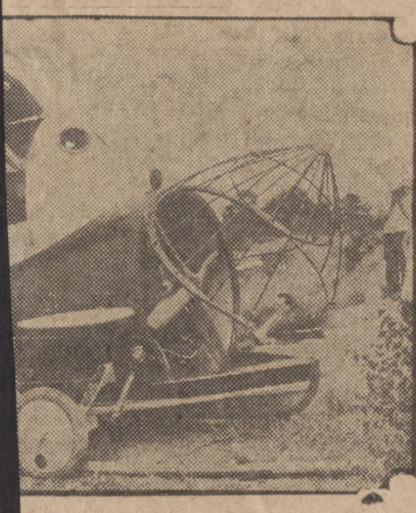

Either of these two jewel pieces may be worn to advantage with the very modish white linen, pique, shantung suit. Medicines and other liquids should be guarded by being corked loosely, then dipping the cork into melted paraffin. If your vacation takes you to a place where the water is very hard you can soften it sufficiently for toilet use by adding a pinch of borax.

BANDIT BOMB KILLS TWO IN BANK

FORT WORTH, Tex., Aug. 9.—UP

—A maniacal bandit threw a bomb into the foyer of the Stockyards National Bank here today, sending himself and a bank official to death in the blast which wrecked a portion of the bank. Two other persons were injured.

F. P. Pelton, vice president of the bank, and W. P. Thompson, a customer, suffered lesser injuries and were taken to hospitals. Forty other persons in the bank at the time escaped injury.

Lynn Marshall, assistant cashier of the bank, and W. P. Thompson, a customer, suffered lesser injuries and were taken to hospitals. Forty other persons in the bank at the time escaped injury.

Makes Threats

A theory that the bandit might be connected with extortion threats against business men here was advanced by police, but was discounted.

The robber first approached Pelton, the vice president, who in turn referred him to W. L. Pier, bank president.

"I am desperate," the bandit said. "There is a price on my head. If you don't fork over $10,000 I'll blow this bank to hell." He held a black satchel in his hands which later proved to contain explosives.

Saw Police

Pier turned the bandit over to Marshall, the assistant cashier and instructed him to start counting out the money. Pier then went to a telephone to summon police, cautioning them "A maniac" was in the bank and to come cautiously and without delay.

Marshall slowly counted out the money and handed it to the robber. The man turned to leave only to catch sight of two uniformed policemen entering the bank. He turned about, lifted the satchel containing the explosives above his head and dashed it to the floor.

Bank Wrecked

The blast killed the bandit and Pelton, standing nearby, and destroyed a corner of the bank. Stone fixtures and furniture in that portion were covered with blood and bits of bill and checks littered the wrecked interior.

Thirty bank employees and ten customers were in the bank at the time. Women screamed. One fell to the floor. Bills were blown from the hands of customers. They were deafened temporarily by the force of the explosion.

The blast broke windows, wrecked portions of steel cages and knocked plaster from the ceiling. The executive offices were wrecked.

Heard Blast

President Pier probably owed his life to the fact that it was he who summoned the police and who went to the vault to get more money. He was thirty feet from the bandit when he crashed the satchel to the floor.

"At that time I heard a terrific explosion," Pier said. "A great hole was torn in the floor and I saw that Pelton and the man who demanded the money were badly mangled."

From the disfigured and torn body of the bandit, police hoped to find clues to his identity. Fingerprint experts believed they could get good impressions of his left hand. His right leg and right arm were blown off and his features were disfigured. He appeared to have been six feet tall, about 200 pounds in weight, and had brown hair.

The only early clue to his past discovered after the blast was a battered hat which was believed to have been his. In it was the cryptic notation—"Phoenix, Ariz., sister living in that city."

RIOTS FEARED AT FOLSOM HEARING

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 9.—UP

—With the memory of a bloody riot of two years ago as an inspiration, authorities tonight planned elaborate safeguards against disturbance at a session of the supreme court to be held in Folsom prison.

Sometime during the week, probably Wednesday night, the seven members of the state's highest court will convene in the prison and hear Warren K. Billings deny that he or Thomas J. Mooney were implicated in the Preparedness Day bombing, July 22, 1916, in which 10 persons were killed.

Decision to meet at night is the main part of a precautionary program. The 2,200 convicts will be locked in their steel cages before members of the court enter the prison.

Riots Feared

Thus, it is explained, the hazard of rioting will be largely eliminated as the routine of the prisoners will not be disturbed.

It is a wise precaution, in the opinion of Warden Court Smith and other prison officials. Folsom is California's institution for men with previous convictions and as a result many of the convicts are hardened habitual criminals.

Authorities are not taking a chance on repetition of the Thanksgiving day riot in 1927 when convicts attempting to escape fought until 13 men were killed.

The prison session will climax a strange and bewildering series of judicial acts in connection with pardon applications made by Billings and Mooney.

Retrial On

Acting wholly without precedent the court has "re-tried" Mooney and Billings during the last two weeks. It has heard evidence pertaining to trials held in 1916 and 1917 and admitted into the records the repudiation stories of two witnesses at the original murder trials.

The return of John MacDonald, principal repudiation witness to California caused the court to decide to conduct a "re-trial" so that it could hear MacDonald's own story that his identification of Mooney and Billings as bomb planters was "a pack of lies."

Miss Estelle Smith, witness against Billings, also told the court that her trial testimony was untrue.

Prison Session

The hearing technically pertains to Billings' pardon application but the scope of it broadened until it was ruled that Billings must appear and testify. Convicts must not leave California prisons, making it necessary for the court to hold a session at Folsom.

Mooney is involved in the Billings hearing because the men were convicted on the same evidence. The court is acting in the Billings pardon matter because California law so provides in the case of previously convicted men.

Governor C. C. Young may pardon Mooney without court action but it is probable that he will follow court ruling in the Billings appeal, as he considers the cases as parallels.

Decision Not Near

There is little hope for a speedy decision in either case. Governor Young won't act in the Mooney pardon plea until the court disposes of the Billings pardon application.

It also is possible that the court will want to hear Mooney testify and in the event it does a San Quentin session will be necessary. Mooney is serving his life sentence in San Quentin and the same technicality that prevented removing Billings from Folsom applies in equal force to Mooney and San Quentin.

Most observers believe that decision on the pardon appeals cannot be made under the present program, until after the California primary, Aug. 26, in which Governor Young is seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination, which in California, is tantamount to election.

Mutilation To Be Probed By Grand Jurors

CHICO, Aug. 9.—UP—Investigation by the Butte county Grand Jury will be commenced next week at Oroville into the mutilation Thursday of Charles Randle Jr., by Frank Lawson and James Patterson, while Patterson's wife and daughter, the latter allegedly wronged by Randle, looked on.

Randle was in a serious condition in the county jail today, following their preliminary hearing at Justices Court. They were held for Superior Court trial and were imprisoned when they could not produce $5000 bail.

The daughter, Erma Lawson, 17, was held by juvenile authorities.

Randle was in a serious condition in a local hospital, but his injuries were not likely to prove fatal, physicians said.

Mrs. Lawson, maintained today that she alone was responsible for the brutal crime, and that she had suggested the operation to her husband and Patterson after Lawson threatened to shoot Randle.

Randle, on his part definitely denied ever attacking the Lawson girl, as he was accused.

The mutilation occurred in a barn on the Lawson ranch, where Randle had been lured by a phone call from Erma Lawson. Once at the ranch, he was seized and bound by the two men who took him to the barn and mutilated him while the two women looked on.

Mooney is involved in the Billings hearing because the men were convicted on the same evidence. The court is acting in the Billings pardon matter because California law so provides in the case of previously convicted men.

Governor C. C. Young may pardon Mooney without court action but it is probable that he will follow court ruling in the Billings appeal, as he considers the cases as parallels.

WILD HORSES IN DEMAND

BOISE, Idaho.—UP—Postmaster L. W. Thrallkill is thinking of going into the wild horse business.

Since announcements were made that Idaho was planning a few wild horse roundups, to clear the ranges of the useless animals and make room for cattle and other valuable livestock, many soft-hearted easterners have sprung to the defense of the lowly mustang and bangtail, and Thrallkill has received varied offers for animals.

Most of the offers he receives are accompanied by remarks which lead him to believe that some people do not relish the thought of sending wild horses to canning factories, from which places they emerge in tins bearing various cat and dog food labels.

Cash and trades are suggested. Some people want horses given to them, promising "good homes and loving care" in return, for the animals.

One youth, who had heard that a small boy obtained a horse in exchange for three rabbits, volunteered to raise the ante. He offered Thrallkill one Chinchilla, one checkered giant, four New Zealand reds, two Flemish giants, and 14 nondescript cross-bred rabbits in exchange for three mustangs. He wants one, and he desires to obtain one for his younger brother and one for a pal. He asked to be notified in case his offer was accepted.

Thrallkill suggested that, with a little advertising, the business of trading in wild horses might become profitable. The animals usually sell for $5 a head, when purchased in large quantities, after a roundup, although some of the better animals, fit for riding, often command higher prices.

Spelling Of Foreign Cities Cause Trouble

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—UP—Constantinople is "Istanbul" today and that, along with many another change in geographical names abroad, is vexing Americans who address foreign mail the Commerce Department has found.

Indeed, so confusing to American business firms and others is this new spelling, that the U. S. Geographic Board named a committee to study the matter. It reported clarification "in a scientific and practical manner," was needed.

Meanwhile the Commerce Department warned in a recent statement, the business man who would ingratiate himself with foreign customers needs to mind his diacritical markings, vowels and consonants.

"The American Exporter" the department said, seeking orders in Finland, in addressing a letter to the capital used either "Helsinki" or "Helsingfors," the former being Finnish and the latter Swedish.

"Finland, like some other countries, has a national consciousness, which favors using the Finnish name of its capital just as other countries give preference to their own national geographic nomenclature."

"The psychological advantage of using the Finnish name of his city in addressing a letter to a Finnish merchant is apparent."

Like the seven blind men who went to see the elephant, the various nations and schools of spelling can't agree.
